

New Media: April 27th-May 1st

Topic: Podcasts

There are two options for this assignment. Please pick the option that works best for you depending on your access to technology and the internet.

Option #1: Record your podcast

This option is easiest if you have an iPhone. Use the “voice memos” feature to record your podcast. For this assignment, I am not expecting perfection. I just want you to try your best and see what you are capable of with our limited technology options.

Your podcast should include:

- Some kind of introduction. Say your name, who you are, and what the topic of your podcast is.
- A body (like an essay). In this section, share information about your topic, interview 1-3 people using the questions you wrote, be creative! If you are unable to interview the people you wanted to, try interviewing your siblings. You can even interview yourself.
- A conclusion. Wrap up your podcast! What do you hope your audience remembers about your podcast?

Option #2: Write your podcast

For this option, all you need is a pen/pencil and some paper. Write out your podcast as though you are recording it. You should still include everything from option #1, but instead of recording it, just write down what you would say. For the interviews, either interview someone in your household, or try to imagine what your interviewee might say.

This assignment is meant to be very creative and open-ended. All I’m looking for is that you give it a try!
